Austin Child Guidance Center is one of the premier training sites in Austin for future mental health professionals and accepts graduate students who are seeking field experience as part of their degree program. Since 1951, Austin Child Guidance Center has been dedicated to improving the mental health of children and their families. A multidisciplinary team of psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and counselors provides individual, family, and group therapy; psychiatric and psychological services; parent education; community presentations and consultations; and training to current and future mental health professionals.

We primarily accept advanced graduate students in the fields of psychology and professional counseling. At a minimum, students should possess the following before applying to the Center: at least one course in family, individual, group therapy; some experience in psychosocial assessment; and some course work related to children and adolescents. Prospective students should have previous practicum or work experience using psychotherapy skills. Students must commit to the Center for at least 20 hours/week for two semesters (Fall/Spring only). Interns must meet all requirements for LPC-intern licensure.

It should be noted that a placement at Austin Child Guidance Center is very demanding; however, you will find the agency very supportive in terms of the supervision and training you will receive. It is recommended that you seek out other students who have completed placements at the Center and get their opinion before you apply.

Psychology and counseling students are accepted in the Spring for a 2 semester placement the following Fall and Spring semesters. Students should submit all required documentation by April 1st, to Andrea Ciceri, LCSW. Following this deadline we will be scheduling interviews. Because of the volume of requests we receive, we ask that you send an e-mail to inquire and/or submit applications.

The following documents are required for application:

1. Professional/Academic Resume
2. Cover Letter
3. Two ACGC Recommendation Forms completed by two separate professional references
